

Agilent EEsof EDA Connected Solutions Support

Data Sheet

Overview

E5721AS Connected Solutions Support is for you if you perform I/Q-modulation-based system and subsystem design verification and behavioral modeling for applications such as WLAN, 3GPP, EDGE, and GSM. Connected solutions support offers startup assistance and quick ramp-up when meeting ADS and instrument connectivity challenges. Connected solutions support also enhances productivity through ongoing phone- and FAX-based support.

Features:

- Startup assistance
 - Configuring I/O libraries
 - Configuring instrument software drivers
 - Connecting ADS to instrument drivers and instrument I/O
- Bridging measurement and simulation support
 - Phone guided support for connected solution instrumentation and connectivity software. Support for Agilent standard solution bundles with signal analyzers (VSAs, PSAs) and signal generators (ESGs)
 - Support for bridging/correlating measurements with Advanced Design System (ADS) simulations for wireless communications I/Q modulation applications (ADS-supported wireless design libraries such as WLAN, 3GPP, and EDGE).
- Utilizing proven call tracking tools, phone support, and escalation process, Monday-Friday, worldwide

Benefits:

- Make only one call
 - Incremental support provides a single point of contact for simulation and measurement questions. No need to call two or more support groups software and hardware support.
- Get more work done
 - Spend less time and money on startup and test before you begin measuring and simulating components and systems. Instead, enjoy quick access to support engineers with expertise in connected solutions.
 - Complete overall measurement-to-simulation support addressing ADS-to-instrument connectivity.
 - Web-based self-help in addition to phone support and local language support.
