

ANAREN RECOGNIZED AS 2007 U.S. SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION REGIONAL SUBCONTRACTOR OF THE YEAR – AFTER NOMINATION BY RAYTHEON MISSILE SYSTEMS

Syracuse, NY, March 19, 2007 – Anaren, Inc. (NASDAQ: ANEN) is proud to announce that it has been recognized as the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) "Subcontractor of the Year" for Region II (NY and NJ). The company was nominated for the SBA award by Raytheon Missile Systems (Tucson, AZ).

"We are excited to win this award and honored to have been nominated by our important customer, Raytheon, in the first place" says Larry Sala, President and CEO of Anaren. "The challenging work we are doing with Raytheon is rewarding in and of itself. To also be recognized by them and the SBA by the award is a real tribute to each and every one of our dedicated Anaren team members."

According to the SBA, the Small Business Subcontractor of the Year award honors small businesses that have provided the government and industry with outstanding goods and services as subcontractors.

"We are proud of Anaren's achievement. Being recognized by the U.S. Small Business Administration demonstrates the type of commitment that Anaren has made to its customers as well as the community," said Robert Parra, Raytheon's senior manager of Supply Chain Management.
