See attached document that the end user finally signed on 11/2/2209 (note the date both at the top of the document, and over the seal.

I don't quite understand what kind of game they are playing, and the customer is being belligerent about providing these documents, and they and I have been going back and fourth for weeks about how the goods can not be shipped until an actual letter can in from the actual end user. First they tell me the good are for their own use, then they indicate a second country, and now Uzbekistan.

Is the attached end user letter suitable for the shipment?

Jim,

Can you email me or fax a copy of the end user letter?

Thanks,

Subject: Shipment to Switerland

I hope you had a good Thanksgiving,

My customer has (finally) coughed up an signed, sealed, etc end-user letter that indicates that the end user is the Communication and Information Agency of Uzbekistan. They got the letter from their client on the 24th, and sent it to me on the 25th (nice of them to drag their heels and play games with me).

Is there any problem shipping these goods directly to a government agency in Uzbekistan, or do we need to ship it to the address the customer provided in Switzerland?

Can you get me an estimate on shipping an OSCOR with MDC-2100 and and OTK-4000 to Tashkent (city name) in Uzbekistan (the street address is: 10, Kirk klz str.). Yes, I know that you might have to poke around to find an MDC, but this has already paid for the goods (some time ago), and there was an issue with their initial end-user letter, which hopefully is not resolved.
